

Student-Expectation Gap

A comparison of 4th grade students scoring at the proficient level in math on 2007 state assessments vs. an internationally benchmarked common standard show dramatic differences in what is considered proficient. . Of all states, only Massachusetts had more students perform at the proficient level on international standards than on state standards.

4th Grade Student Proficiency

