

The Purposeful:

Those who have found something meaningful to dedicate themselves to, who have sustained this interest over time, and who express a clear sense of what they are trying to accomplish in the world and why.

The Dabblers:

Youths who may have tried a number of potentially purposeful pursuits but who have yet to find reason to commit to any of them.

The Disengaged:

Young people who have neither a purpose in life nor an inclination to find one.

The Dreamers:

Those who can imagine themselves doing great things in the world but who have yet to do anything to pursue their ideas in a practical way.

Note: Percentages add up to 101 percent because of rounding.